DID YOU KNOW THE WEST JORDAN ARENA HAS PRIZE WINNING DIRT?

It takes a special mix and hours of working the dirt to make it the right consistency so the livestock, cowboys, and cowgirls can safely compete on it. If it's too loose, horses can dig too deep and risk injury. If the dirt is too hard the riders can't get traction and may slip.

Hard dirt also poses a safety risk to animals and riders alike, and it's not too comfortable to land on. The dirt should be fluffy and light - but not so light that it kicks up too much dust. It's a science!

We tip our hats to volunteer extraordinaire, Steve Brower, who has spent countless hours on a tractor tilling and working the dirt so it's ready for all the different events that come to the West Jordan arena. We thank you Steve for sharing your time and talents with the Western Stampede!

Meet the Committee

The City of West Jordan would like to thank the Western Stampede Advisory Board for donating their time and talents to plan and put on a great rodeo. An event this size takes a lot of coordination and the planning for next year will begin as soon as the dust settles from this current rodeo.

Volunteers have always been the heart of our community traditions since the first rodeo in 1954. If you would like to get involved, we have a variety of ways you can participate. Or if you have any feedback please email: events@westjordan.utah.gov.

Addie Bowler is thrilled to once again be part of her hometown rodeo, the West Jordan Western Stampede, a tradition she has loved her entire life. The oldest of five children of Lynn and Haylie Bowler, Addie has been volunteering at the rodeo since 2014, helping with everything from running flags and sorting livestock to singing the national anthem and organizing mutton busters. A proud fourth-generation cattle rancher, she enjoys caring for her family's land, animals, and 14 horses, combining her love of rodeo life with her passion for performing arts. Currently pursuing a BFA in musical theatre performance at Utah Valley University, Addie loves any opportunity to perform, whether on stage or horseback. In addition to singing together, many members of the family are involved in musical theater, both performing and directing. Several of the children also sing with the One Voice Children's Choir. When they're not making music, the family enjoys exploring national parks, playing with their dog Milo, spending time outdoors, and gathering for family game nights. They made their rodeo debut last summer in Riverton and are thrilled to have another opportunity to perform. Cervi Championship Rodeo

STOCK CONTRACTOR

Cervi Rodeo, established in 1967, continues to thrive today as a testament to dedication, hard work, and a deep respect for the sport of rodeo. Its longevity and success are due in large part to the incredible team behind the scenes and the exceptional animal athletes that make each performance possible.

Our team is the backbone of the operation, consistently putting in long hours—from early mornings to late nights—to ensure everything runs smoothly. Their commitment, work ethic, and pride in the job are what allow Cervi Rodeo to deliver a professional and dependable performance every time. Without their drive and reliability, the level of trust and excellence we maintain would not be possible.

Equally important are our animal athletes, whose care and innate abilities are at the heart of everything we do. They are treated with the utmost respect and are essential to the success and integrity of our rodeo.

Looking ahead, Cervi Rodeo remains committed to carrying its legacy forward. With continued leadership, innovation, and a passion for the sport, we strive to build on the foundation laid in 1967 while ensuring that future generations can experience and appreciate the tradition of rodeo at its highest level.

History of the Western Stampede Rodeo

The West Jordan Western Stampede has been a Utah tradition since 1954. That year, the first rodeo was held in the city by an amateur rodeo club; Jordan Agriculture. At the time, the town's board president asked to hold a special event in July as a celebration for the community.

From the beginning, members of the community made the entire event possible. Citizens contributed their time, labor, and equipment. Volunteers laid cinderblocks for the ticket booth and refreshment stand; others went as far as bringing their own backhoe to help bury pipe for the new bathrooms.

The first Western Stampede celebration was a success! One hour of the rodeo was televised. The other events included a parade, tug-of-war competition, wild horse race, a dog act, a beard contest, horse pulling, and a greased pig chase. The event drew large crowds and loyal fans for years to come.

While much has changed over the years with the Western Stampede, one thing has remained the same. The Western Stampede is a group effort. It would not be possible without the hardworking people who love their city and this tradition.
